

Work out a win-win solution

I AM sure that visitors to Mid Valley Mega Mall in Kuala Lumpur would have noticed that there is an attractive Hindu temple in the midst of that busy shopping mall.

Sri Maha Sakti Mohambigai Aman temple is a century-old temple and is owned by a family.

In 1994, the owner of the temple was asked to relocate to make way for the construction of the mall.

Instead of seeking compensation, the owner asked the developer to allow it to remain and requested for help to apply for approval for a proper structure to be built.

The developer agreed and an attractive temple was built.

The temple is now a popular tourist attraction for both local and foreign tourists.

There is always a win-win solution with a little thought, care and compromise.
